

Contact: Louis D'Agostino
317-852-4209
louis@teamapexusa.com

Team Apex Racing, USA to Contest the 2010 Star Mazda Series

For Immediate Release:

Brownsburg, IN (October 9, 2009) Team Apex Racing, USA is pleased to announce that they will compete in the Star Mazda Championship starting in 2010.

Team Apex competed in the Formula BMW Championship this year finishing the season with strong performances from their three rookie drivers, Joao Victor Horto, James Kovacic and Martin Sala.

The team takes great pride in participating in premiere driver development racing programs, including the Formula BMW team they currently manage. The Star Mazda Championship presented by Goodyear has been compared to college level athletics and other minor league sports that have a hand in training future sports stars.

Team Apex's first foray into Mazda racing will be via the Star Mazda Winter Series beginning on November 7th at Infineon Raceway California and will run a complete schedule in the Star Mazda Championship presented by Goodyear in 2010. They are currently in the process of recruiting qualified drivers.

Team Apex Racing, USA was formed in 2004 and has been involved in grass roots racing since 1989. The team emerged as championship contenders in the 2005 Formula BMW USA series with Canadian rookie Robert Wickens and continued its winning heritage in 2007 with American superstar Alexander Rossi. Team sponsors include Wabash Capital Investments and Indiana State University Motorsports Initiative.

Interested drivers should contact Martin Bates at Team Apex Racing, USA for more information at 317-852-4209 or martin@teamapexusa.com