Successful Firestone Indy Lights Oval Test for Rookie Bruno Palli

Brownsburg, IN (August 28, 2012) – Star Mazda Championship driver rookie Bruno Palli continued his Indy Lights testing at Kentucky Speedway with Juncos Racing, completing his first oval test and received approval to run ovals in the Firestone Indy Lights Series.

Rookie Palli, 21, currently drives the #15 Team Viso Venezuela/Juncos Racing car feels confident after completing his second test in the lights car and was happy to receive approval to run ovals in the future.

“I’m really happy about all of the work we completed today at Kentucky,” said Palli. “The most important thing was that I pass the rookie test which I did so without any issues. Kentucky is a fast oval and the team continued to teach me lots of different things with the car. Now it’s time for me to get back in the Star Mazda car this weekend and go for the win at Baltimore.”

Ricardo Juncos, Team Owner, was pleased with Palli’s second run in the Indy Lights car and looks forward to taking Palli to the next level in his career.

“Bruno had another great day in the Indy Lights car, continuing to excel in his performance with the car and knowledge of ovals,” said Juncos. “I’m thrilled with how fast he is learning the car and the fact he was able to gain approval from the Indy Lights officials to run on ovals in the Indy Lights Series. We have had a busy week getting ready for Baltimore with our Star Mazda cars and testing at Kentucky, but my team has had no issues getting everything done with all of the hard work they have put in. Thank you to the crew, Bruno, and E.J. Viso for another successful day!”
